

MUSIC EDUCATORS: CURRENT MUSIC TEACHERS and RECENT MUSIC EDUCATION GRADUATES!

Like the beautiful open ocean around us, life's ebbs and flows can open endless new possibilities.

You may want to consider the opportunity to begin graduate studies in Music Education at Memorial University via the Master of Education Degree in Curriculum, Teaching and Learning Studies \(Music Education Focus\).

Admission to the program is open to holders of a B. Music and B. Music Education Degree (or equivalents) who have teaching/leadership experience and are interested in pursuing graduate study in Music Education.

This degree can be completed via one of the following program routes. Many of the required Education courses can be taken remotely in combination with Music Education courses that are offered in blended and flexible formats. There is also flexibility in this master's program to develop a self-directed course plan that will facilitate personal and professional timelines, goals, and specific focus areas of study.

Program options may include:

- Course Route - 30 credit hours
- Internship - 24 credit hours plus internship
- Project- 24 credit hours plus project
- Paper Folio - 24 credit hours plus paper folio
- Thesis Route - 18 credit hours plus thesis

Sample Music Education graduate courses include:

- Ed 6502 - Contexts of Music Education
- Ed 6503 - Teaching Music From the Podium (offered Fall Semester 2020)
- Ed 6504 - Musicianship, Pedagogy and Learning
- Memorial University Singing-Choral Institute: Singing Traditions and Practices; Vocal and Choral Pedagogy; Choral Conducting

More information on Memorial's graduate programs can be found HERE.

Applications are open and ongoing. Specific inquiries about the M. Education degree (Music Education Focus) should be directed to:

Dr. David Buley at info@munmusiced.ca